

In a second interview done much later she says that she is sure Barack Obama was born in Mombasa because she was visiting her family there when he was born, and they were called to the CGPH where she met Barack Obama's mother for first time.

Yet in another interview Mama Sarah turned hostile and gave a conflicting testimony that Barack Obama was born in Hawaii and the family only got to hear or learn of the birth through a letter that Barack Obama's father sent later.

All these conflicting testimonies point to the fact that the Obama family is trying to hide something but are not doing a very good job of it.

This means that were dealing with a situation that calls for caution and only a joint investigation would do. ///
