

12. Some fear that this build-up of military-style equipment by city and state law enforcement agencies makes it more likely that, sometime in the next few years, the government may use this force as part of an effort to impose a type of martial law on their citizens that severely restricts personal freedoms to move about town, travel, or to freely associate with other like-minded individuals. What do you think is the likelihood of this scenario?

WND/Wenzel Poll – Firearms in America Crosstabs – 1-15-2013

12. Some fear that this build-up of military-style equipment by city and state law enforcement agencies makes it more likely that, sometime in the next few years, the government may use this force as part of an effort to impose a type of martial law on their citizens that severely restricts personal freedoms to move about town, travel, or to freely associate with other like-minded individuals. What do you think is the likelihood of this scenario?
